Head Lice

Please can we remind parents to regularly check their children's hair for head lice, especially if you see them regularly scratching.

Here are a few items of information that may help:

- The best treatment for head lice is conditioner and a fine tooth comb. Head lice become resistant to many medications.
- Head lice walk from head to head and cannot jump. Tying up long hair in school can help prevent your child catching head lice.
- They like all hair, clean and dirty.
- You can only remove adult lice with a special comb. The eggs still remain in the hair and will hatch over a period of two weeks if no more are laid. It is important to comb to remove the lice as they hatch. Treatment is needed for a period of several weeks.
- Very often the eggs hatching cause more lice – not the child catching them again.
- Removal of the oval empty egg cases is of cosmetic value only. Removal of live eggs is difficult and unreliable.
- Ordinary combing has very little effect.
- Head Lice can live up to 48 hours off the head so please ensure that you wash towels bed linen etc.
